NRC STAFF ISSUES ORDER TO FORMER NORTH ANNA CONTRACT EMPLOYEE PROHIBITING INVOLVEMENT IN NRC-LICENSED ACTIVITIES

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission staff has issued an Order to a former contract employee at Virginia Power Company's North Anna nuclear power plant which prohibits involvement in NRC-licensed activities for a one-year period and requires notification to the NRC of the person's first involvement in NRC-licensed activities for an additional year after the prohibition expires.

NRC officials sent notification to Cecil Ray Owen on January 2, informing him of the action. The action was taken because Owen failed to state his complete employment history, as required, on a 1995 application for employment with Westinghouse Electric Corporation at North Anna in order to conceal that he had tested positive for use of controlled substances while working for a previous employer.

NRC officials said his actions demonstrated untrustworthiness to conduct activities at an NRC-licensed facility.
