PART I.C COMMENTS ( Use attached Comments continuation page if required)

As part of its regulatory mission, the NRC establishes uniform operator licensing examination standards from which licensees generally develop and administer operator licensing written examinations. The written examination is a key measure that allows the NRC to make a confident decision regarding the safety-significant performance of individuals seeking a license. Release of the most recent examination questions would undermine the integrity of this process and adversely affecting those facility licensees who are planning to use questions from these examinations as a screening tool before the March 7, 2018 GFE. As reflected in NUREG-1021, the NRC delays publishing the questions used in an examination for one year after the examination is administered.
